Faculty and Teaching

To facilitate its elaborate teaching programmes, MNLU Mumbai has a team of both young and experienced dedicated faculty members in law, social sciences and humanities. The faculty adopts both conventional and non-conventional pedagogical methods such as case law method, problem solving, role play, simulations, mock trials, group activities, ex-tempore drafting and quantitative tweaking in their teaching and learning processes. The University through these teachers promotes mentor/mentee engagement to nurture the students to attain their goals. Most of the teachers are on rolls at regular cadres with UGC scale of pay.

Students and Learning

Students of MNLU Mumbai are aware of the predicaments associated with a young and growing University and exhibit a unique sense of belongingness. Students are indeed partners in the making of the University. They organize regular debating and other co-curricular activities to nurture the skills demanded in legal profession. Equal importance is given to the sports, both indoor and outdoor for cumulative development of the student.

The news letter of the University-“NYUSURETA” is solely managed by the students who meticulously carry out the responsibility of bringing out this illustrious newsletter. These initiatives are amongst many other activities taken up by the students which have reposed confidence and radiated zeal all around the University. Centre for Post Graduate Legal Studies (CPGLS) also publishes PG Newsletter on annual basis.

All students are covered under a comprehensive health insurance scheme and the University has appointed counselors to ensure mental wellbeing of the students.

For physical fitness wide range of sports facilities are made available to the students which includes foose ball, snooker, table tennis, lawn tennis, volleyball, football, badminton, basketball and cricket.
