ABOUT CITY OF AGARTALA

Agartala, the capital city of Tripura, is situated on the banks of the Haora River. Historically, it was the capital of the princely state of Tripura and continues to be the capital city of the modern Tripura. It shot into prominence when Maharaja Krishna Manikya shifted his capital to the city. Agartala offers some outstandingly beautiful palaces, gardens, hills, temples and lakes. Perfection is the word for the architectural monuments of the city. The red government buildings are in contrast against the remarkably usually white old British buildings that are still in existence and in use. Some of the monuments have been selected as UNESCO world heritage sites.

Agartala has a good sporting tradition, with many sports and games being played. Especially favourite is football (soccer) with its own city football league.

Agartala is famous for its seasonal fruits. The Queen and Kew varieties of pineapple are popular. Tripura's Orange is well known for its high juice content and special sweetness. It has secured the highest honour several times in the all India "Citrus Show". Do not forget to visit the pineapple gardens, litchi orchards, cashew orchards and orange gardens.

Tripura is the third smallest state in India and is located in an isolated hilly region of the country, with various indigenous peoples or tribes accounting for a significant portion of the population. Agartala is home to 19 indigenous tribal groups and Bengali speaking non-Tribals. In the beautiful hills of Northeast India lies the city of Agartala. Being known for its breath-taking scenic view, this state is also popular for its tribe culture and food. There are numerous places to visit in Tripura. Tripura is the holy land of Goddess Tripura Sundari, one of the 51 Shakti Peethas. Locally known as Matabari, the temple is situated in the serene locality of Udaipur.
